TUESDAY JANUARY 23, 1912

To enjoy a thing exclusively is commonly to exclude yourself from the true enjoyment of it.—Thoreau.

It's worth $750 a month to hand it out to everyone alike in the city cleaning business.

The one thing denied by no one is that Theodore Roosevelt is before the country. That's happy days for Theodore.

Who's the commissioner? Probably the first man who comes off the boat with a disguise of green goggles and false whiskers.

Headed by Commissioner Wakefield, the majority of the Harbor Commissioners are making a consistent fight for the protection of the rights of the people. That's all there is to it, and such a policy is bound to win.

Is it possible for the people of Honolulu and more especially members of the Republican party to leave the decision to the Commissioner of the President and agree to abide by the result? It is worth considering.

No educational institution in the country has a brighter future than the College of Hawaii. It is one of the chief factors operating to make this Territory a commonwealth as against a dollar-grinding mill fit only for the capitalist and the peasant.

Honolulu needs free garbage. Every reason exists for making this work a general charge upon the taxpayers under a specific tax. The scheme of increasing the rates means merely increasing the expense of people who are willing to pay for having their places kept clean.

Officers of the cruisers who bought Honolulu real estate show the good judgment that has always been credited to these keen minded men. They know what the Panama Canal means to Honolulu. They understand the naval and military plans that are on foot for this island. And if fighting should be necessary, we shall have men on the ships who are fighting for their own homes as well as their country. We hope the day is not far distant when every resident of Honolulu will prove by his acts that he has the same confidence in the grand future of the city that is expressed by the great majority of those who come here from the mainland. No better investment exists than Honolulu real estate.

CHANGING PARTY RULES.

A terrible howl is raised in anticipation that there may be some changes made in the Republican party rules, and with good reason. Amended rules might prevent drunken precinct secretaries from refusing to allow reputable citizens to enroll, they might prevent the repeaters from earning their money, they might prevent roll-stuffing, they might throw out of party office men who have confessed felonies to their discredit, they might prevent sharp practices whereby precinct nominations can be blocked. Amended rules might be framed with an idea of fairness and decency, therefore we can not have them. Mercy, no!—Advertiser.

It is proper to bear in mind that the

EVENING SMILES

"Wife, will you thread a needle for me? I want to sew on a few buttons."
"Why, certainly. There you are. Now you can sew on your buttons while I go to the bridge club. Sometimes I wonder how you managed before we were married."

"Do you believe in the rod in educational methods?"

"Why not? Isn't the use of the rod the natural way to make children smart?"

only crooked party attempted under the rules of the party in the last campaign was that which the present managers of the party encountered in dealing with the particular faction backed by the morning paper.

Consequently the crocodile tears from that source don't have much influence on anyone who knows the facts.

The point at issue is whether the Republican Committee will not find itself in a new peck of trouble when, at a time like the present, it starts monkeying with the rules. The Committee should bear in mind that a content on the rules can be carried into the convention and the whole thing upset if the convention be so minded. Delegates elected direct from the people are a law unto themselves and can make new rules governing the committee.

Under the present circumstances and with politics in their present tinder-box condition, the less said about subjects that will furnish a new source of probable acrimonious debate and factional warfare, the better.

DIRECT FROM THE PRESIDENT.

Correspondent Albert's message of today is the first direct word from the President that has been received in this city.

It appears that President Taft believes an independent investigation by a special commissioner is the only solution of the difficulty growing out of Delegate Kuhio's protest against the reappointment of Governor Frear.

Now it is up to the Commissioner.

Delegate Kuhio in his final paragraph of the first charges filed against the Governor said:

"In conclusion, I challenge Governor Frear to an investigation of conditions in Hawaii under the charges made, and if only that investigation be thorough, searching and made under conditions so that men will not fear to speak their minds, there can be but one result, namely, that Governor Frear, with all fair concessions to his ability in handling the details of his office and other matters, will be found not to be the man to guide Hawaii in the status where she will naturally begin development as a self-governing commonwealth along traditional lines."

The challenge has been accepted. The investigation has been ordered. The identity of the commissioner being unknown to the Governor, presumably everyone will be ready to speak his own mind without fear.

So it appears that the Delegate has got what he wanted, and the rest of it depends on the good sense of the Commissioner as well as the willingness of both sides to the controversy to accept what he says as right.

PRESIDENT TAFT AND HAWAII.

We of the Islands had rather gathered the impression that the Chief Executive did not realize thoroughly the conditions and the needs of the situation and was passive rather than active as a friend of Hawaii.—Advertiser.

Who the deuce is "WE?" Since when has President Taft ever been guilty of being a passive friend of Hawaii?

Was not the original scheme of defense by which Pearl Harbor was selected as the military and naval base of the Pacific a decision of the Taft Board?

Is there anyone who questions that President Taft knows more of conditions in the Pacific and in the Territory of Hawaii by actual contact and personal observation, than any man who ever occupied the high office of President?

The trouble with the Advertiser is the same old difficulty. It can't think of anyone as an active friend who happens to disagree with the hide-bound prejudices of the Advertiser ring in any particular.

The one thing and the only one on which Mr. Taft became somewhat nettled in dealing with Hawaii was the attitude of our people toward the tariff on products from the Philippines. Our people saw the light. That is the only occasion on which the President has not been "on all fours" with us for everything that will strengthen and improve the Territory of Hawaii as a strong American base in every sense of the word.

At this very moment he is showing his deference to the people of Hawaii by refraining from making a decision "right off the bat" on the matter of the Governorship. He is willing to be shown. He wants to do that which proves to be best after mature deliberation. Could an attitude of greater friendship and more sincere official purpose be asked or hardly imagined?

This is and has been the Taft policy toward Hawaii ever since he has had anything to do with affairs in this part of the world.

AGENTS DISGUISE TO DRUM UP TRADE

A party of Pacific Coast railway passenger agents and representatives of San Francisco hotels is said to be numbered among the one hundred or more passengers due to arrive at Honolulu tomorrow morning in the Matson Navigation steamship Wilhelmnia.

These men are understood to be coming down to the Islands with the expectation of taking passage in the Hamburg-American line steamship Cleveland, which will pull away from the Alakea wharf at 5 o'clock on Thursday afternoon, bound for the Golden Gate.

Thereby hangs a tale, which has to do with the local customs, in that it is believed that a violation of the existing coastwise shipping laws and regulations is intended.

It will be remembered that with the departure of the Cleveland from this port on the occasion of the last visit of the German liner with excursionists, several mainland railway agents and hotel representatives finally secured passage in the foreign steamer, contrary to the United States laws.

At this time they were signed on the articles as assistant stewards and in other capacities.

These representatives are out for business. They will endeavor to enlist the patronage of the Cleveland tourists in favor of a particular hotel while remaining in San Francisco and also hope to land the prospective traveler for a trip across the continent by their particular line of railway.

The matter has been brought to the attention of the local customs service. It is said that should such an attempt be made to evade the Federal regulations, the matter will necessarily didn't know that he was "dead" until he entered the Board of Health dispensary shortly before 8 o'clock, to fulfill an errand, and was there shown the morning paper.

"They'll be chasing me all round town if they see this at the station," said Voris. "I guess I'd better report on."

And he did, looking better than he has for weeks past.

The report of the special builders' committee named to investigate breeding places of mosquitoes in buildings of the city and make recommendations for a better grade of construction, was made public yesterday. This report, which was drawn up by J. L. Young, J. H. Craig and E. W. Quinn, confines itself largely to the technical details of gutter and roof construction, and ends with a recommendation that a county ordinance be framed to meet desired regulations.

Declaring that if the military men in charge of the sanitation work come on his premises they do so at their own peril and further that if he is arrested he will demand a jury trial and a change of venue followed by a suit for $150,000 if the Territory loses its case, Captain W. H. Bowers of the Merchants' Patrol is the latest one to join the ranks of the kickers against the mosquito campaign.

"DEAD" MAN MUCH ALIVE

It was a considerable surprise for George H. Voris, an old-time employee of the Honolulu naval station, to pick up the morning paper today and read that he was missing and probably dead, and that his fellow workmen were looking for "accurate information as to his fate or whereabouts."

Voris has shown symptoms of consumption recently and a few days ago decided to take a vacation and visit a friend at Makapuu Point. He left there in a wagon on his return journey to Honolulu at 3 o'clock this morning, and Editor Evening Bulletin:—I have been waiting from day to day to note the mention of Supervisor Amana for reelection. As no one else comes forward I would like to have you add his name to the list of available. Mr. Amana has been a good man. He represents a growing electoral power in this town and he ought to be considered.

Thanking you for space, I am
CHINESE-AMERICAN.
Honolulu, Jan. 23, 1912.

No lack of good material is apparent in the discussion of men who might be and ought to be in public office as members of the Board of Supervisors. The men are here in the city of Honolulu. The only problem is whether the community will wake up in time to give the efficient men who are also good candidates the backing needed to carry them through a live campaign for a growing city.

The name of J. M. Dowsett for Mayor meets with steadily increasing favorable mention. One of the leading business men and harshest critics of the inefficiencies of the municipal government has made the statement to the Bulletin that Mr. Dowsett is just the man for the place. He enjoys the confidence of the so-called business men and is popular with the people at large.

Given a first class mayor and Board of Supervisors, and Honolulu need not worry over the form of its government.

Robert Henderson, formerly in the employ of the customs bureau, was found in the lavatory of the Hawaiian Hotel yesterday morning, somewhat injured in the head. It appears he walked into the basement of the hotel, where he slipped and fell onto the cement floor and injured himself.
